

Body Language Cheat Sheet

21 attraction signals decoded — what they mean, why they work, and how to develop them. Free from lustdr.com

21

Signals
Decoded

THE 21 ATTRACTION SIGNALS

Signal	What It Communicates	How to Develop It
Sustained eye contact	Confidence, genuine interest	Hold 3–5 sec, break slowly to the side — never look down
Upright posture	Status, self-assurance	Shoulders back, chest open, spine long — check every 2 hours
Slow, deliberate movement	Calm, high-status composure	Walk at 70% of your usual speed — let the room come to you
Duchenne smile	Warmth, approachability	Smile from the eyes — crow's feet signal genuine positivity
Open body stance	Confidence, no defensive energy	Uncross arms, face torso toward the person you're speaking to
Subtly mirroring	Rapport, emotional alignment	Match posture and gestures with a natural 2–3 second delay
Grounded, wide stance	Physical dominance, calm authority	Feet shoulder-width apart — distribute weight evenly
Slow head nod	You are listening, engaged, present	Nod once, slowly — rapid nodding signals impatience
Controlled gestures	Articulate thinking, confidence	Gesture from the elbow, not the wrist — contained but expressive
Leaning in (slightly)	Genuine interest, engagement	15° forward tilt when they speak — signals you value what they say
Light incidental touch	Interest, oxytocin release, comfort	Brief arm/shoulder tap — only once rapport is established
Slow, low voice	Confidence, authority, calm	Breathe from the diaphragm — never rush to fill silence
Vocal variety	Emotional engagement, charisma	Emphasise key words — monotone reads as bored or anxious
Comfortable with silence	Security, not needing approval	Let a pause breathe 2–3 seconds before responding
Head tilting	Curiosity, active listening	Slight 10° tilt shows you're absorbed in what they're saying
Reduced self-touching	Low anxiety, self-possession	Keep hands resting naturally — avoid face/neck touching when nervous
Controlled blinking	Calm, confidence	Slow blink rate signals composure — blink rate rises under anxiety
Physical proximity calibration	Social intelligence, awareness	Social zone 1.2–3.7m; personal zone 0.5–1.2m — respect transitions
Purposeful entry	High status, intentionality	Pause 2 seconds at any entrance — scan the room, then move
Congruent expression	Authenticity, trustworthiness	Face and words must match — micro-expressions expose incongruence

Relaxed jaw and face

Approachability, ease

*Consciously drop jaw tension — set a "soft face" as your default7 GOLDEN RULES

- 1 Slow everything down by 30%
- 2 Take up appropriate space — don't shrink
- 3 Let pauses work for you, not against you
- 4 Lead with eye contact, not words
- 5 Mirror after rapport — never before
- 6 Congruence beats any single technique
- 7 Practise in low-stakes situations daily

INSTANT DOS & DON'TS✓ Do

- ✓ Make eye contact first
- ✓ Walk with intention
- ✓ Smile from the eyes
- ✓ Breathe before speaking
- ✓ Own the pause

✗ Don't

- ✗ Break eye contact downward
- ✗ Rush to fill silence
- ✗ Touch your face when nervous
- ✗ Cross arms in conversation
- ✗ Shrink into spaces

"You cannot not communicate. Every silence, every posture, every micro-expression sends a signal. The only question is whether you're sending the right one."